"With your 'in-house' staff of construction specialists, you demonstrated the kind of quality that is so often missing in this profession. We did not encounter any unwanted surprises; you always performed as you said you would."

SCOPE AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

When one of the country's largest fruit marketing companies decided to expand its world headquarters in Fort Pierce, Florida, they chose Richard K. Davis Construction Corporation to handle the job. Putting together a professional construction team, including the project architect and civil engineer, we were able to deliver a multi-purpose facility to handle the company's domestic and international business.
